

ASL response to the EEASM press release

In order to overcome technical difficulties in producing water for which it is solely responsible, SAUR, through the Community and the EEASM, has taken discriminatory measures aimed at cutting off the distribution of water in certain private housing estates.

The Association of owners of Lowlands, although it has never built the slightest water network on its territory, notes that SAUR has unilaterally decreed that the drinking water network which is located inside Terres-Basses, was a private network even though the vast majority of Terres Basses' properties are not served with city water, each owner making its supply of water (cistern, drilling, desalination).

A small minority of lots, however, is a SAUR client from a pipeline that can only be public since ASL des Terres Basses has never asked for it.

This network of drinking water of a significant diameter, crosses the Lowlands, moreover without right, nor title, to supply mainly the Wastewater treatment plant of Pointe des Canonniers which is also supplied with Wastewater by a pipeline which is , also located on the ASL site, without rights or titles.

The history of ASL des Terres Basses has been that its creator, Mr. LAWAETZ, marketed the entire housing development without carrying out a VRD, contenting himself with drawing dirt roads as roads. There was no water or electricity pipeline.

As for the history of the Terres Basses d'eau water pipeline, it reveals:

- that its presence is concomitant with the Pointe aux Canonniers WWTP,
- that it is compulsory in order to supply water to the Pointe aux Canonniers WWTP which cannot operate permanently without water under high pressure for several hours a day,
- that it was built by the municipality at the time, under the supervision of SEMSAMAR, with SOGEA as its main business and financed in part with European funds.

Furthermore, this network, since its creation, has always been maintained by the various managers of the public network. (SOGEA, Generale des Eaux)

It is only since SAUR benefited from the Saint Martin water contract, that suddenly the water pipes would be a private network.

ASL des Terres Basses therefore wishes to make this modulation to the Collectivité / EEASM / SAUR press release which voluntarily truncates reality and, in all cases, will do what is necessary in order to assert and preserve its rights and those of owners who do not even benefit from the WWTP, which regularly disfigures and pollutes the Lowlands, since the colotis are required to have an individual septic tank.
